

Final Decor

A visual identity for a residential interior design studio based in Aleppo, Syria — built on quiet, architectural restraint where photography of the work carries every chromatic decision.

We design rooms to be lived in – not photographed.

Final Decor is a residential interior design studio. Our work is warm, modern and precise: backlit feature walls, layered cove lighting, honest wood and stone, and furniture arranged for real family life. The identity steps back so the spaces can speak.

The system is deliberately monochrome. Black ink, paper white, two greys — and hairline rules instead of decoration. Every trace of colour on the page comes from the photography of the rooms themselves.

STANDARD — CONSIDERED

THE MARK

The symbol abstracts an architectural elevation — stepped towers rising from a single baseline, with punched openings that read as windows and light. It is drawn from straight edges only: no curves, no radius, echoing the structural clarity of the interiors.

The primary lockup stacks the mark over the wordmark. The mark may stand alone as an app icon or stamp. Preserve clear space equal to the width of one tower on every side; never redraw, rotate, or add effects.

WORDMARK

Four neutrals and a single warm accent. The rooms still provide most of the colour — Terracotta appears on roughly one-tenth of the surface: labels, numbers, arrows, active states and links.

 Ink Black #000000 Text, rules, mark, every hairline border.	 Paper White #FFFFFF The single surface. Everything floats on it.	 Charcoal #333333 Secondary text and quiet labels.
 Soft Graphite #979797 Captions, meta, faint dividers.	 Terracotta #B1542E The 10% accent — eyebrows, section numbers, arrows, link hovers, active filters, text selection. Never a large fill.

AA · 500

Architectural, warm, exact.

AA · 700

Interiors that hold light.

A neo-grotesque with an even, humanist rhythm. Used at medium (500) for most headlines and bold (700) only for emphasis. Open, even tracking (+0.01em) and generous size do the work — never let it shout.

INTER

LATIN TEXT

The quiet luxury of a well-planned room is the way the light lands at seven in the evening.

Substituting the studio’s reference sans, Inter carries all running copy, navigation and captions at weights 400–500 with tight tracking.

An editorial two-column grid on a 1440px canvas. Sharp corners everywhere — 0px radius on images, cards, inputs and buttons. Depth comes from photography and whitespace, never from shadow.

Max width	1440px
Section gap	56 – 104px
Element gap	18 – 21px
Radius	0px
Rules	1px solid #000
Elevation	None

Photography is the entire visual language. Warm, naturally-lit interiors shot wide and environmental — the furniture shown in lived-in rooms, never on white. Full-bleed or column-width, 0px radius, no overlays.

Shoot at dusk with the cove and accent lighting on.

Keep verticals straight and compositions wide.

Let warm woods and stone read naturally — no heavy filters.

Avoid

No text, badges or graphics laid over the photography.

No duotone, no desaturation, no cool colour casts.

No rounded corners or drop shadows on any image.

How the system travels off the page — social templates, banners, and the printed and physical pieces a studio actually hands people. Same rules everywhere: sharp corners, hairline rule, one accent, photography doing the talking.

SOCIAL — INSTAGRAM Reel · Carousel · Grid

Reel cover

1080 × 1920 (9:16). Sharp-cornered frame, not a phone render — stays on-brand. Logo mark as avatar, ♡ / ↗ / ✕ as the only UI glyphs.

Carousel post

1080 × 1350 per slide. Cover slide carries the project name; middle slides are detail shots; the last slide always closes on the handle.

Profile grid

Reels (▶) and carousels (▣) sit inside the same warm, wide, dusk-lit photography as everything else — the grid should read as one project, not nine posts.

PICTURE BANNERS Landscape · Portrait

Landscape banner

1200 × 630 — website hero, Facebook cover, link previews. Diagonal scrim keeps the wordmark and headline legible over any photo.

Portrait banner

1080 × 1350 — poster, Story ad, print flyer. No app chrome, so it reads equally well printed or boosted.

PRINT & SIGNAGE Business Card · Site Sign

Business card

85.6 × 54 mm. Ink front carries only the mark; every contact detail lives on the paper-white back, right where a hand expects to find it.

Site hoarding board

Vinyl-printed sign for the project entrance while work is underway — type-led and legible from the street, the terracotta rule doing the only colour work.

Do

Use hairline 1px black rules to divide — never boxes or fills.

Set Europa Grotesk at 500; reserve 700 for rare emphasis.

Let photography carry the colour; add Terracotta only as a ~10% accent.

Keep every corner sharp — 0px radius, always.

Don't

Don't add colour beyond the one Terracotta accent — no gradients or coloured fills.

Don't use shadows, elevation or surface tinting.

Don't fill large areas with Terracotta — keep it to buttons, marks and small accents.

Don't place graphics or badges over photography.
